Mr. Adelstein,

Thank you for you supporting open air waves in the recent discussions about the turning air waves over to private industries.

Sincerely,

Deborah Taylor Tate
Commissioner, Federal Communications Commission
445 12th Street, SW
Washington, DC 20554

Dear Deborah Taylor Tate:

The Internet has become an integral part of American life and will only become more important in the future. That is why all Americans, especially American school children, need access to Internet service that's free, fast, and family-friendly - at school and in the home.

Unfortunately, current prices for broadband in the United States are among the highest in the world. No American child should be left behind because existing broadband options are not affordable.

Furthermore, parents and teachers are currently saddled with the burden of trying to protect children from indecent material on the Internet. Network level filtration of indecent content is the best solution available to ensure that children cannot access explicit Web sites, allowing parents and teachers more freedom to utilize the educational resources available online.

Implementation of a proposal now pending with the FCC, such as the one submitted by M2Z Networks (www.m2znetworks.com) to provide a universal, free, fast, and family-friendly broadband service, is supported by the Coalition for Free Broadband Now and is a necessary step to both ensuring that American school children, parents and teachers have affordable broadband access and to protecting our children online. I urge you to act on such proposals today!

Sincerely,

Robin O'Reilly

The Internet is the last place most of us can go to find the uncensored information we want, communicate with the rest of the world, and be ultimately free. People are already sick to their stomachs from what the FCC allowed to become of television and radio. If you try to censor the Internet, you'll be opening some deadly flood gates. Our government is starting to look more like a government for the big corporations, by the big corporations. Congress already said no to stopping net neutrality now the FCC must ensure that broadband providers do not block, interfere with or discriminate against any lawful Internet traffic based on its ownership, source or destination. If we make these companies the gatekeepers, it will in turn damage my ability to connect with others, share information and participate in our 21st century democracy and economy. I am hoping the FCC will do the right thing, the American thing, or not so American thing... Thanks from a concerned citizen in Iowa.

Cable Choice, stop BET's demeaning shows.

Net Neutrality and Cable Choice go together. I do not trust the Democrats but I am sick of how you Republican appointees have destroyed competition!!
